NORTHERN PACIFIC'S MORTGAGE VOTED

Sterling Exchange Rates Drop as Mid-Year Demand Fails to Materialize.

The interest of the professor of indo-German philology at Gottin-The interest of the professor of Indo-German philology at Gottingeh, in a rumor from America that one-fifth of a second had been clipped of the conference record at the Siwash meet would be as great but no greater than the interest of the average Wall Street man these days if he were told that a new low record for dulness had been established in the stock market. It means as much to him that the historian has to go back eighteen years putting out of mind the inevitable exception of something last year that mars but must not be allowed to destroy the comparison—it means as much to him as though the said historian had to go back eighty. Mentally he says to the historian as Artemus Ward said to the schoolmaster departing for higher fields of endeavor: "Go! Be like a cagle, and soar—and the sorer you get the better we'll like it." The dulness of the stock market is the one thing he never can doubt, even if he is buried in the woods, a hundred miles from the telegraph office. Nevertheless, and for the sake of the record, it is to be set down that yesterday's session saw the smallest number of shares changing hands in five hours that any day this year has seen—around 66,000. Last year, on November 24, there were 57,000-odd, but barring that, there was no such low tide mark as yesterday's clear back to 1896.

Waiting for McAdoo.

If Secretary of the Tressury McAdoo feels inclined this year to offer the banks of the South and West some $23,000,000 of the government's cash to help them move the ernment's cash to help them move the crops, they are not likely to have any trouble in finding enough commercial paper to put up for security, even though security of that type, following the precedent of last year, is counted at only 65 per cent of its nominal

Gold Export Point Recedes.

Sterling exchange rates dropped about 25 points yesterday on disappointment. It had been felt all along that there would be a sort of secondary advance at this time, based on the need of remittances for the mid-year settlement abroad, but that advance failed to appear, and when it showed no signs of arriving on schedule there was a pretty steady outpouring of bills. Whether the gold export movement of the year is now definitely over is a question whose answer will be determined mainly by the great banks of Europe. Sterling rates, however, the reports from abroad that the Bank of France and the Bank of England may shortly reduce their discount rates encourage the view that the next time gold crosses the sean in quantity it crosses the rean in quantity it will be on a westward movement. The Bank of France, no less than the Bank of England, keeps American gold coins in their original form, not melting them down, so that the probability is the gold will return in the form of "hard money."

Railroads and Crops.

Railroads and Crops.

The railroads can't afford to wait until big crops come along to prepare fer them. Already the assistant general manager of the Southern Pacific has started a co-operative movement to facilitate the movement of empty cars so that they will be available as promptly as possible for grain shipments, and it is not improbable that both railroads and intelligent shippers will do what they did last year, sould cat injunctions to shippers in general to load and unload cars without avoid able delay. Usually the railroads can depend upon a fair amount of freight moving West during the summer to help out with the expense of sending cars to the agricultural fields. This year, though, poor general business has so cut down the westbound freight that there will be a very heavy haulage of empty cars, the one thing the railroads like least to see in their reports.
